Methodist Authorities and Bookeford & Gould Complete Preliminary Steps.

WORK ON BUILDING STARTS THIS FALL

Structure to Occupy Eminent Site a Glenwood Avenue and Cuming Street and Be Ideal in Workmanship,

"A contract was signed up with Rocheford & Gould, contractors, Thursday night calling for the partial construction of the proposed Methodist Episcopal hospital," said C. W. DeLamatre, president of the Omaha Hospital and Deaconess Home association of the Methodist Episcopal church in Omaha. "The contract was signed by myself as president and Rev. D. K. Tin- EARLING WITHHOLDS VIEWS dall, recording secretary, in the presence of Presiding Elder Jesso W. Jennings and the contractors.

The boiler house and laundry and the operating pavilion, both two-story brick and stone structures, will be carried to completion this fall and the central portion of the main ward building will be carried general manager, W. J. Underwood, assistup to the first story."

The plans of the new hospital, now in the office of Architect Thomas R. Kimball, 503 McCague block, call for a pretentious group of buildings, the whole to compose what will be known as the Methodist Episcopal hospital and to be located on an elevated plot of ground eminently suited as hospital site at Glenwood avenue and Cuming street. The main hospital building will have a frontage of nearly 300 feet on Cuming street everlooking the prettiest part of Bemis park. The main hospital building-or ward building-has a central elevation of five stories, with four wings branching out from its four corners diagonally, each of which will be three stories high when completed.

The operating pavilion, which is to be built this fall, stands immediately back of the center of the main structure and some fifty feet to the rear of the operating pavilion the boiler room and laundry is to be constructed. East of the operating pavilion a hugh intake shaft, or chimney, is to be erected. It is octagonal in shape and will rise to the height of about sixty Through this intake shaft fresh air will be supplied to the main building.

To Be Fireproof.

The entire group of buildings, consisting of the main ward building with its four and stopped in the city long enough to call has not been abnormal." large wings, the operating pavilion and at the offices of his company. the combined boller house and laundry, are to be constructed of brick, stone and Iron. with a view to rendering them absolutely fireproof. The original plane called for 'slow burning" buildings, but these have been changed to the end that as hearly as possible in modern architecture fireproof buildings will be erected: The contract entered into with Rocheford Gould contemplates the construction this rall and winter of the boiler house and names among the clergy for an appoint indry, the operating pavilion and the letion of the basement story of the central partion of the main building, which considering several names. is 150x10 feet on the ground plan. Work is to commence immediately and to be parried to completion as expeditiously as Watch The Sunday Bee.

pavilion probably will begin by the first of next week. The contract price of the work let to Rocheford & Gould has not been definitely learned, but is approximated at $25,000. The exact dimensions of the main hos-pital building and wings as planned have seen ascertained to be as follows: Main building, 510x40 feet; four main wings, which are to be erected at as early a date as possible after the construction of the main building, the boiler house and operating pavilion to be each 32x80 feet. The operating pavilion will be 48x57 feet and will contain besides a main operating ampitheater for clinics, two small operating rooms for private operations. The botler room and laundry will be 34x70 feet in dimensions on the ground plan and is to be equipped with the latest and most approved mechanical devices for heating the entire group of buildings.

President of Milwankee Regards Grain Market as an Important Question.

A. J. Earling, president; H. R. Williams, ant general manager, and E. S. Keeley, general freight agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, made a brief stop in this city yesterday. The party was in President Earling's private car, Minnesota. They have been out several days going over the line on a tour of inspection. The party came in over the Burlington waukee for Chicago at 10:30 a. m.

He said there are many things to be taken into consideration in answering a question of such sweeping imwould care to make at present would be that what is good for Omaha will likewise be good for all the railroads centering here. President Earling had nothing to say regarding the rate situation brought about by the estrance of the Chicago Great Western into the Omaha territory. He said he had been absent from home several days and was not familiar with recent developments in the rate cituation. His trip to this city has no special significance at this time, he is simply on a tour of inspection,

Big Sums. About forty purchasers became the owners of hapy homes, or the happy owners of homes, as the case may be, at the auction sale of houses which was held to dispose of the buildings on the Chicago Great Western tract between Leavenworth and Mason street Thursday and Friday.

There were eighty buildings to dispose of, but as there was a limit put upon them at the opening of the sale, there were a number which the prospective buyday may not have been much much as a ers thought too high and on which they snow, though it served every purpose of refused to bid, so that only half of them demonstrating that when he tries the were sold. Report of Soldiers' Home Inspector Figuesr in Resignation of Cole.

INQUIRY DISCLOSES SOME IRREGULARITIES Adjutant Bowen Mentioned as Possible Successor, While Petition is Sent In for James Walling.

Regarding the resignation of Commandant Cole of the Grand Island Soldlers' home it has come to be pretty generally understood that his reason for laying down official burdens was not entirely, if at all, due to the ill-health of Mrs. Cole, as was intimated when it first became evident that Mr. Cole was to have a successor. It may be said that Governor Mickey has not yet named the man to succeed Commandant

James Walling, present deputy United States marshal, a resident of Lincoln and an old soldier, has been recommended for the place. A petition signed by Judge W. H. Munger of the federal court and many other federal building officials has been sent to the governor in behalf of Mr. Walling.

Recent investigations and conclusions of General Curtis, the national inspector of soldiers' homes, are said to figure quite extensively in the decision of Mr. Cole to divest himself of official duties. General Curtis made an investigation of the Grand Island home. He is said to have discovered a practice by which the present regime was able to secure more money-ostensibly in such buildings will be reserved by the for the home-from the national government than the state was entitled to received.
